PRESIDENT PEIRCE AND WIFE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Dr. William Peirce, President of Kenyon college was slightly hurt and Mrs. Peirce sustained a fracture of one arm when an interurban car struck their automobile during a cross country run in northern Ohio last night. Both Dr. and Mrs. Peirce are today in a hospital at Lorain, Ohio.

The first news of the accident was telephoned from Cleveland by Secretary Frisbie, Lake Division of the Red Cross to Ralph I. Davis, Secretary of the Newark Rotary club this morning. The message said that it was necessary to cancel Dr. Peirce's engagement to speak in Newark next Monday evening but that arrangements would be made for him to come at a later date.

A Lorain message says that in addition to the fracture of an arm Mrs. Peirce may have been injured internally. President Peirce's injury however is slight.

Lorain, July 12.—Mrs. W. F. Peirce, wife of the President of Kenyon college, suffered a broken arm and other injuries, and a companion, Mrs. H. T. West of Gambier, two broken ribs, when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Lake Shore electric car seven miles west of here late yesterday.

President Peirce was dazed when he was taken from the wrecked automobile and it was feared he was seriously hurt but his injuries later were found to be slight.

Prof. F. H. Larwill, of the faculty of Kenyon college, the other occupant of the automobile, was badly bruised. The injured persons were taken to St. John's hospital here.

Dr. Peirce and his party had a miraculous escape from death. The interurban which struck the car was running at a rate of forty miles an hour.

The automobile was shoved far by the interurban when one of the wheels struck a pole and the interurban stopped. The tracks were slippery as it was raining hard when the accident happened. Passengers in the interurban said the motor man had trouble with the air brakes.

Trouble was experienced in extricating the wounded, as the automobile was jammed tightly against the interurban. Finally, President Peirce and his party were put on the "mired" and the return to Lorain started.

W. S. Rand, 11918 Phillips avenue N. E., a passenger on the electric car, said it was raining hard when President Peirce and his party drove toward the interurban line. His explanation was that, with curtains down, the driver of the automobile was unable to see the approaching interurban. Dr. Peirce, who returned recently from Red Cross work in France, was en route to Cleveland after addressing an audience at Lakeside.

PHYSICIANS TO ORGANIZE FOR WAR ACTIVITIES

Columbus, July 12.—Organization of doctors of central Ohio into a "civilian corps" for war activities was discussed last night in a session of 700 physicians, called by Dr. Charles F. Clark of Columbus, to consider the government's call for medical men. Committees are expected to be appointed to determine whether individuals are more needed at home than in the army and to assign community work to those not chosen for military duty. Applications for the medical officers' reserve corps were numerous following the meeting. Besides Dr. Clark, speakers included Drs. Charles N. Smith of Toledo, John C. Oliver of Cincinnati, T. A. McCann of Dayton, and J. E. Cook of Cleveland.

SECRET SERVICE MEN ARE MAKING AN INVESTIGATION

Names of 20,000 Individuals
Secured Who Purchased Securities.

Washington, July 12.—A fairly complete list of the holders of German government bonds in the United States is among the assets of secret service men fighting German propaganda, it was said today by officials discussing the disclosure of the large holdings of the Busch family made yesterday by Alfred L. Becker, New York, assistant attorney general.

Names of nearly 20,000 individuals are on the list, which has been built up during the course of secret investigations made during the last two years. A wide distribution was given to the securities and they were issued in denominations of as small as $50.

Approximately six different issues of the bonds were made in the United States in order to evade the English blockade and to make the bonds valuable if seized a provision was incorporated on the fact most of them that they should be considered invalid unless countersigned by Count von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States. They were underwritten in good sized blocks by various banking houses and institutions, the Trans-Atlantic Trust company being an active agent. An estimate of the total amount secured by the Germans through bond sales was refused today by officials.

AMERICAN PLANES ON BOMBING RAID FAIL TO RETURN

Washington, July 12.—Five American airplanes which went on a bombing expedition have failed to return, General Pershing's communique reported today.

Berlin reported five American airplanes in German hands yesterday.

General Pershing's communique was the first announcement from American sources of the loss of the machines. It gave no details but yesterday's report from Berlin, which came by way of London, declared that the five machines were part of a squadron of six which started out to bomb Cologne. The crews of the airplanes, the German report said, were taken prisoners. The communique follows:

"Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, July 10, 1918.

"Section A: In the Vosges a raid attempted by the enemy broke down with losses before our lines had been reached. The day passed quietly at other points.

"As the result of a bombing expedition last evening five of our machines are missing."

WILL VETO BILL

Washington, July 12.—Members of congress were informed today that President Wilson has begun drafting a message to congress vetoing the $23,000,000 agriculture appropriation bill because of amendment providing for increasing to $2.40 per bushel the government's minimum guarantee for wheat. Although an attempt may be made by members from wheat producing states to override the veto, it is generally believed the bill will be re-enacted with the wheat amendment eliminated.

ITALIAN ARMY STILL ADVANCES

The program of German's foreign policy, the chancellor added, was laid down in German's reply to the papal peace note and it would be adhered to. That would be a righteous peace and Germany has not and will not change her policy, however strong the idea of destruction was expressed in speeches in allied countries.

The recent utterances of President Wilson and Foreign Secretary Balfour, he continued, forced Germany to continue the struggle.

Admiral von Hintze, the new German foreign secretary in succession to Von Kuehlmann made a binding declaration to Count von Hertling that he was willing in every way to follow the imperial chancellor's policy.

Chancellor von Hertling told the reichstag main committee that the government intended vigorously to prosecute the reforms already begun. He commented on the problems in the east and in the west and concluded with remarks on the government's future program regarding the declaration made in November, 17, which had been accepted by a large majority in the reichstag.

The change in the foreign ministry, the chancellor said, was not caused by any real differences of opinion, but arose out of personal discussions revealing matters which should be made public.

TO IMPROVE THE SUGAR SITUATION OVER COUNTRY

Washington, July 12.—Prices of sugar to the consumer will be equalized and the distribution bettered despite a threatened shortage, food administration officials predicted today, by the operations of the sugar equalization board, created by President Wilson upon recommendation of Administrator Hoover. The new organization is also expected to facilitate joint dealing with the allies in foreign sugar and aid in adjustments of differentials in overseas freight rates.

The board will have authority to acquire sugar produced at factories where the cost of beets and by reason of other factors will not permit the product to be sold at a reasonable price. It will be possible through the operations of the board, says the food administration announcement to work "out a price for the public upwards of 1 cent a pound less than would be the case if the price of sugar were advanced to a price that will cover the high peaks in cost from all quarters."

Application for incorporation of the board with a capital of $5,000,000 has been made in New Jersey. The capital will be supplied by the president from his special war fund. Officers of the board will be established here with Mr. Hoover as chairman, and George Rolph, sugar director, in the food administration, president.

FRENCH TROOPS CONTINUE THEIR RECENT SUCCESS

Capture Longpont Village and Javage Farm In Champagne Sector

GERMAN ARTILLERY ACTIVE IN VICINITY OF VERDUN FRONT

Germans Being Given But Little Rest by General
Petain

Paris, July 12.—The village of Longpont, on the Saviers river, east of Villers-Cotterets, has been captured by the French, says the official statement from the war office today.

The French also continued their progress north of Chavigny farm and east of Faverolles. Javage farm, northeast of Faverolles also was occupied.

In raids north of Montdidier and in Champagne the French captured 15 prisoners. The official text reads:

"Our troops continued their progress north of Chavigny farm and east of Faverolles. Last night our troops occupied the village of Longpont and the Javage farm.

"Two raids, north of Montdidier and the other in Champagne, resulted in the capture of 15 prisoners.

"The German artillery was rather active on the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun region)."

BRITISH TAKE PRISONERS.

London, July 12.—Further raiding operations were carried out by British troops last night, notably in the Flanders area near Merris and Metereen. The war office announces today. Prisoners were taken in a patrol encounter in the Kemmel sector on this front.

On this front another British party raided the German lines near Hamel, south of the Somme. A patrol clash in the neighborhood of Gavrelle, northeast of Arras, also resulted in the taking of prisoners.

In their operation in the vicinity of Merris the British took 120 prisoners. The statement reads:

"In the successful night enterprise taken by us yesterday south-west of Merris we captured more than 120 prisoners and 10 machine guns.

"A raid attempted by the enemy yesterday, south of Buquoy, was repulsed.

"We carried out a successful raid during the afternoon northwest of Merris. During the night Welsh troops raided the German trenches in the vicinity of Hamel and captured 16 prisoners and a machine gun, in addition to destroying many dugouts and inflicting casualties on the enemy. Successful raids were carried out by us also near Metereen. Further, prisoners were taken by our troops in these engagements and also in patrol encounters in the neighborhood of Gavrelle and in the Kemmel sector."

The most tangible result reported from this latest fighting is the capture of the village of Longpont to the outskirts of which the French had pushed in their advance on Wednesday night. A farm in this neighborhood also was taken.

The French lines likewise were driven ahead in the Chavigny farm district north of Longpont. A forward push also was given the line in the area south of Longpont, east of Faverolles.

The extension of the front under attack to the Faverolles region is worthy as showing that the process of straightening out the line between the Aisne and the Marne is being carried still further south and is threatening the local salient held by the Germans between the Longpont district and the American sector, northwest of Chateau-Thierry. The series of operations carried out by General Petain on this front during the present week has been generally regarded as of merely local importance, designed to straighten the line and fortify it against the expected

NEWARK SOLDIER SHOT IN LEG IN BATTLE WITH HUNS

Andrew Cramer, machine operator at the Auditorium, received a letter from his nephew Jesse L. Cramer, 44 Curtis avenue, yesterday telling of his injury in a battle with the Germans. Cramer who enlisted in the 105th U. S. Infantry at Douglas, Arizona, the day after war was declared, was shot in the leg but he writes that he is getting along nicely and will soon be ready to go "hunting for more Huns."

The Ohio War Board Says Today

Ohio farmers and threshermen are giving serious attention to the problem of saving every grain of wheat threshed from the 1918 crop.

In past seasons the farmer who stooped to scrape up a few grains of scattered wheat on the ground was ridiculed by his fellow-threshermen.

"This year the man who permits a bit of grain to be wasted will be put in the 'slacker' class."

Many good suggestions are being received by the Threshing Division of the Food Administration at Columbus.

Here is one from a Cambridge, Ohio, thresherman of interest to farmers. He says that in his twelve years' experience he has found that farmers stack their grain in some out of the way place without thinking of the trouble it causes the thrasher. He suggests that when the wheat is stacked it be located in a place accessible to the threshing machine.

NEW RECORDS FOR YOUR TALKING MACHINE.

Al Jolson scores again for Columbia. In the August group of records just put out by this company is to be found the latest Winter Garden song success by Broadway's versatile black-face idol. It is "Rock-a-bye Your Baby with a Dixie Melody"—and they who have seen "Sinbad" say that when Mr. Jolson ambles out and begins to sing the lines the solid South rises with great applause. It's just as popular North, East and West, too.

Here's "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady"—and could a pretty girl or a popular song ask for a better introduction than that? The record by that name which the Columbia Graphophone company has issued among August hits is every bit as sweet and catchy as its namesake, the original "Rosie."

Are you looking for a new kind of dance music? Something with a new kind of "punch" to it? You'll find it in the August Columbia record on which the Marimbanophone Band breezes through that jazz classic, "The Cotton Pickers' Ball."

Charles Prince richly deserves the title of "Waltz Wizard"—as you will agree if you've ever danced to the dreamy strains of his superb orchestra, as recorded on a Columbia dance record. In the August group of Columbia offerings are two splendid old-world waltzes, "Danube Waves" and "Toujours on Jamais," conducted by Mr. Prince in his own masterly fashion.

Sure proof of the popularity of a song is to find it sung by the soldiers. That is what has happened already to "I Wonder What They Are Doing Tonight?"—a melody which you can hear on a Columbia August record. It is sung by Arthur Fields (who's a soldier himself) and the Peerless Quartette.

SPEED ENABLES DESTROYERS TO GET SUBS.

Out of the danger zone a destroyer suddenly changes course, flies thru the water and lets go a depth charge. The sailors on the deck of the nearby transport see oil spread on the water. Next day the cards report another safe arrival in France.

The speed of the destroyer is due to its wonderful turbine engine and out in Erie, Pa., where they make these turbines, the men are proud of this "work and know that they have contributed their part to the safe arrival of our troops in France."

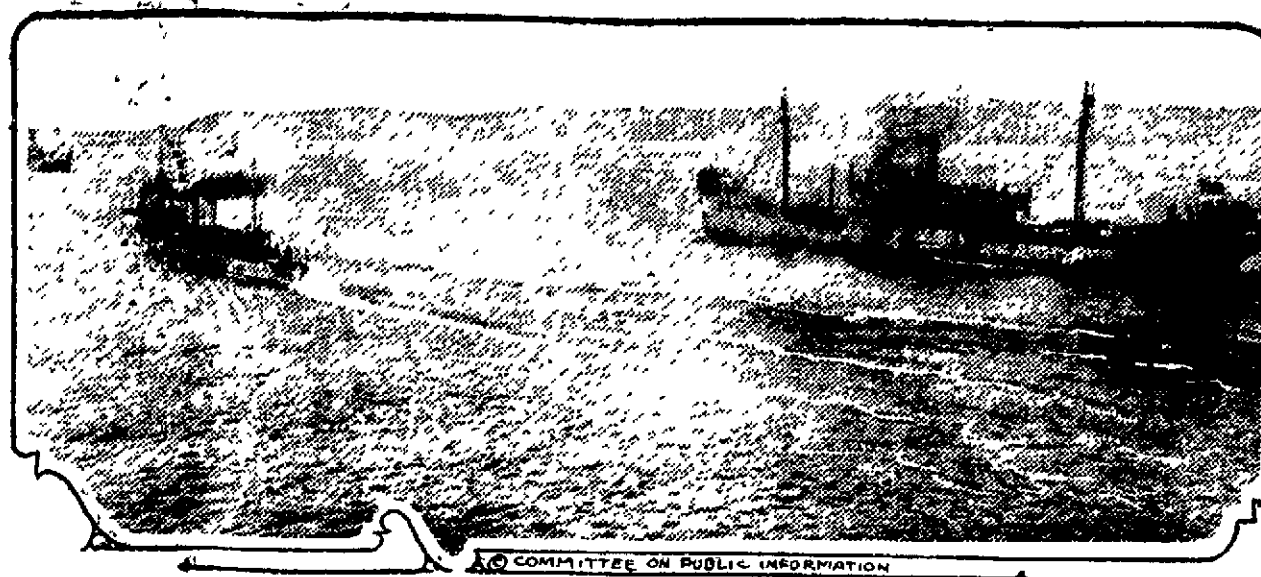

Uncle Sam is building destroyers in constantly increasing numbers—day by day as the ship yards get into their stride more destroyers glide off the ways. So the call comes to Erie "more turbines, more turbines," and Erie calls to every loyal American mechanic:

"Come and help us. Bring your family. We have plenty of beautiful homes ready for you at a low rental. A prosperous city cooled by Lake Erie breezes, where living costs are reasonable. A big roomy, airy plant to work in and of course good wages and a job that will last thru the war and as long after as you care to stay. The Erie Works of the General Electric Company offer you today a permanent home and a permanent job—a job that you can be proud of as a loyal American."

If you are an experienced machinist or foundry man you are needed to make steam turbines. Just write "Show me" on a postal and address it to the Employment Office, General Electric Co., Erie, Pa.

AMATEUR BASEBALL.

People who love baseball become very critical about it. They are sore on anything short of major league talent. If a player makes one error, they yell to have him taken out. They commonly feel that if a town can't afford a fast professional team, it is not worth having any team at all. So they are apt to discourage attempts to organize baseball on an amateur basis to take in a lot of the common run of players.

Yet you don't get the good results of athletic sports by sitting upon bleachers and watching someone else acquire skill and develop his muscle.

The city of Dayton, Ohio, worked out very well last year the benefits of amateur baseball. They had had trouble in getting backing enough for a good professional team. So they undertook to organize amateur ball, and $15,000 was secured. They formed 36 teams, played 436 games, before audiences aggregating 400,000 people. There were 1095 players.

Over a thousand men were thus encouraged to keep up their athletic development. The aggregate of the audiences must have been larger than a team could expect to draw in a season in that sized city. Young people were given a wholesome recreation and sport, and encouraged to find their enjoyments at home.

Any town can have amateur baseball on that basis providing sport for its young men. Every neighborhood might well have its scrub games, and every factory industry its nine, all developing players for the town team. Of course garden work takes the precedence over any sport now. But plenty of fellows are loafing around evenings who would do much better to spend their time practicing for regular Saturday afternoon play. The long twilights under daylight saving give plenty of opportunity.

SUBMARINE DREAMS.

(Philadelphia Record.)
In the address made by the German minister of the navy, Vice Admiral von Capelle, on the results of submarine warfare, the curious but characteristically Teutonic statement was made that "official publications by the German admiralty staff are the most reliable bases for judging the military results of the submarine war."

A moment's reflection will show how preposterous such an assertion is. Most of the attacks by submarines are made at night, or in the twilight of early morning or evening, and the statement is frequently made by the survivors of such operations that they saw no U-boat. Under such circumstances it can be easily seen that the commander of a submarine could form no accurate idea of the tonnage of the vessel attacked. In many cases he cannot even know whether the boat sinks or manages to keep afloat. His reports to the home authorities are therefore often largely guesswork, and certainly do not form "the most reliable bases" for estimating the amount of tonnage destroyed. The British and their allies, on the other hand, know the exact size of every boat lost, and as they are at least as truthful as the Germans, their figures must certainly be regarded as much nearer the mark. The percentage of Teutonic exaggeration in losses generally runs very high.

Von Capelle is also quoted as saying that "four to five big vessels with valuable cargoes of material for troops, raw material and foodstuffs are sunk daily," etc. Vessels carrying "valuable cargoes of material for troops" are presumably either American or are chartered on American account. It has been the practice of our navy department to give the names of all such vessels that fall a prey to submarines, and the number thus lost during the past year is so small as to be practically negligible. In another war the falsity of the Teutonic figures can be shown. If four "big vessels," say of 5000 tons each, were sunk every day, that would give a daily loss of 24,000 tons, and monthly of 720,000 tons. The actual figures of losses, carefully compiled, and including all vessels, both large and small, aggregate less than half that total. The British manage to save a great many boats that the submarine commanders doubtless report as destroyed.

There is no disposition in responsible quarters to blink the seriousness of undersea warfare. At the same time it is just as well not to be unduly alarmed by German boasting. The submarine menace is gradually being mastered. It has failed to starve Great Britain into submission after a year and a half of ruthless operation, and it has not prevented the United States from sending more than 1,000,000 soldiers and incredible amounts of supplies across the ocean during the past year. Von Capelle may brag, but the logic of the situation is all with the allies.

A STRONG MAN ON THE JOB?
(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
Ireland is not the only part of the British empire which is being assiduously cultivated by German agents and propagandists. The Union of South Africa is, according to the admission of Premier Botha, in a state of serious unrest. Anti-British sentiment has become so strong that stern repressive measures may be necessary to prevent an outbreak like the De Wet rebellion.

The South African Nationalists, who are Dutchmen acknowledging the leadership of Gen. Herzog, have never been reconciled to British rule, notwithstanding the fact that the British overlordship is little more

And here is the test, with every man, of whether money is the principal object with him or not. If in mid-life he could pause and say, "Now I have enough to live upon, I'll live upon it; and having well earned it, I will also well spend it, and go out of the world poor, as I came into it," then money is not principal with him; but if, having enough to live upon in the manner befitting his character and rank, he still wants to make more, and to die rich, then money is the principal object with him, and it becomes a curse to himself and generally to those who spend it after him.—Ruskin.

Reformed.
"I gave short weight," said Grocer Dov, "but do not think it pays to do so. The judge you see, convinced me of the error of my weights."

Why Not Hook and Ladder Companies?

Aunt Caline says: Last week I an' Gran'ma Podnose decided we'd take a jant up to town an' get us a few things which we kneaded an' after we had bought them we jest enjoyed ourselves a-lookin' in the winders. Pretty soon Gran-ma grabs my arm an' says she, "Caline, look at that there sine," she says. "I didn't never see nothin' like that in all my born days," she says. An' when I looked at where she pointed at I seen a sine which said, "20 girls wanted to sew buttons on the 4th floor." "Well," says I, "What of it?" "Why," says she, "I was jest a-wonderin' why they don't use nales," she says. "It would be some cheeper," she says, "an' quicker."

About the Right Size.
The Greek states was a coin that represented $3.53 and they doubtless found it convenient when it came to paying the weekly salaries of their newspaper men.

Pointed Observations
It is a rare American who was educated in Germany and does not show traces of inoculation with the kultur germ.—Columbus Dispatch.

Put Out the Lights.
The new rules of the fuel administration to prevent any needless use of coal have not been adopted too soon. "The restoration of 'lightless nights' is so obvious an expedient that the wonder is the rules in force last winter were ever abrogated. Much of the rigid economy demanded by the war entails considerable personal sacrifices. The food restrictions, for example, have not always been easy to follow, but they have been cheerfully accepted. A public used to brilliantly lighted streets and flaring electric signs will undoubtedly miss them for a time. But the necessity of saving coal is too imperative to justify complaint. We do not want any more workless Mondays.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Culprits.
When potato sticks to its business of being a potato it is a thing of beauty. And joy forever. But when a potato goes out of its class and tries to be bread, it has, in our opinion, missed its calling.
—Macon Telegraph.

Very well, then.
The potato is not the only thing that has got into the wrong pew. We know a man who was yelpt. A poet and who wrote Vers libre.

Ill-Starred Passion.
The love of money may be the root of all evil, but a man has to marry it to have this brought home to him.

Did You Know?
That there are two kinds of telescopes, refracting and reflecting? In the former the rays of light are made to converge to a focus by lenses, while in the latter they are made to converge by being reflected from the surface of a slightly concave, highly polished mirror. The largest refracting telescopes in the world are in the United States. The one at Yerkes Observatory, Geneva Lake, Wisconsin, has an object lens 40 inches in diameter with a focal length of 64 feet. The movable part of the instrument turning on the polar axis weighs about 12 tons and the clock 3 1/2 tons. Other large telescopes are the 36-inch at Lick Observatory, Mt. Hamilton, California; the 26-inch at the United States Observatory, Washington, D. C., and the 24-inch belonging to Harvard University. There is a 30-inch refracting telescope at the Allegheny Observatory, Riverview Park, Pennsylvania.

law and prescription for its citizens, makes no threats. It says in simple terms, but firmly, that the same justice and fair dealing pledged by the United States to the people of Mexico will be expected in return from the Carranza government. That condition of constraint and friction now exists between the two countries is not to be denied, but in no sense is it to be called a crisis. It is susceptible of diplomatic settlement and unless President Carranza surrenders to malign influence, the cloud on our relations with Mexico will soon pass away.—New York Times.

Keep Away from the Front.
Can not a way be found to head off the projected congressional junker to the European battle fronts? Ten members of the House, it seems, are planning to go across in July or August. Neither in the former excursion nor in this picnic are any members of national note or influence. It is "small fry" effort to attract notoriety and revel in such attention as the French and British people, out of a desire to be gracious and complimentary to the American nation, will naturally bestow upon the party. As nothing helpful or illuminating came out of the former congressional expedition, so nothing beneficial can flow from this second venture. It is merely a cheap effort by a few cheap members to get a little cheap attention and notoriety.—Spokane-Spokesman Review.

No Wheat for Holland.
Because we supply wheat to Holland the Dutchmen undertake to deliver 25,000 tons of potatoes, and possibly 50,000 tons, to our enemy. Well, if we have ordinary common sense we will not let any more wheat go to Holland, and we might as well be considering what shall be done to Holland after the war. It depends on the allies to have its national existence and upon Germany as a source of wealth.—Philadelphia Record.

RUMORED VON HINDENBURG IS SERIOUSLY ILL AND UNABLE TO PARTICIPATE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, July 12.—A Dutch traveler from Germany says a dispatch from the Hague to the Exchange Telegraph company, declares the rumor has spread all over Germany that Field Marshal von Hindenburg is ill and is unable to participate in the work of the army headquarters. The military duties there have been taken over entirely by First Quartermaster General Ludendorff. German newspapers the traveler says, are not permitted to mention the rumor.

TWO SAILORS LOST BY SINKING OF AN AMERICAN LAUNCH

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, July 12.—An American naval launch after aiding a French destroyer in towing a disabled American seaplane to safety was sunk by German shore batteries, losing two of her crew, probably drowned and two taken prisoner by the enemy.

Assistant Surgeon Albert Mason Stevens, naval reserves, and Philip Goldman, quartermaster of New York landed in front of the German batteries and were captured.

Seaman Charles Joe Tatulinski 6215 Fullerton Ave., Cleveland, and John P. Vogt, New Orleans, are missing. Three others in the boat swam for shore with life preservers and were picked up unhurt on allied territory.

39 SALOONS NEAR COLUMBUS BARRACKS ORDERED TO SUSPEND

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, July 12.—Columbus was drier by thirty-nine saloons this morning, when all the liquor oases within a half mile radius of the Columbus Barracks, the distributing point for army recruits for this section of the country, failed to open their doors.

United States District Attorney Bolin gave orders last night that anyone of the proprietors attempting to do business in intoxicants today should be arrested by federal authorities. A brewery in the district was forbidden to continue retail trade and three more saloons may be closed after further survey. The action followed orders from Washington.

GERMAN BONDS

Mr. Becker. The property in the bonds is technically classified as American holdings in investments in Germany and thus not necessarily subject to seizure by the alien custodian. Further revelations of the use made of the money secured are likely to be made from time to time, officials said, when internment proceedings are brought in court.

AMERICAN MONEY FINANCED SPREADING OF PROPAGANDA

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, July 12.—The trial of German propaganda financed in America by money raised in this country through the sale of German war bonds is still one which is long and unexplored by the American investigators, it was learned authoritatively here today.

Count von Bernstorff and Dr. Heinrich Albert, who was German commercial attaché in the United States, were given carte blanche by the German government, according to evidence declared to have been uncovered by the United States attorney general's office, that money which is alleged to have been used to control the stock of the New York Evening Mail in Deputy Attorney General Becker's belief, is only a small portion of great sums said to aggregate millions which German agents used in this country to influence public opinion in favor of Germany. The purchase of and control of newspaper columns is said to be only one phase of the inquiry.

Count von Bernstorff and Dr. Albert had accounts in 16 New York banks, Mr. Becker said. The total of these deposits, none of which came from Germany for the reason that sale of German bonds in America supplied funds considered sufficient for the propaganda purposes, has not yet been learned. The reason, Mr. Becker added, was because of the successful methods of concealment pursued by von Bernstorff and Albert through a system of drawing only cashiers' checks in transferring accounts and making payments. These transfers were frequently made over night as further means of camouflage. Evidence indicated further, Mr. Becker declared, that large sums were sent to South America for propaganda work in Latin-American countries. This phase of the inquiry has as yet been little developed.

Not much more than an hour before the Zepp came, we had been sitting in a room at the house of the local military commandant, right under a big glass-dome skylight. This house was now a very pretty ruin, and it was just as well that we left when we did. You could not even find a splinter of the big round table. The next time I sit under a glass skylight in Dixmude, I want a lad with a live eye for Zeppelins on guard outside.

Something about the branch headquarters ruins made us think of breakfast, which we had forgotten, so back to the hotel. Then we started back to our lines. We were ordered to keep to the main road all the way back, or we would be shot on sight, and to report to headquarters immediately on our return. I thought if the sight of me was so distasteful to anybody, I would not take the chance of offending, being anxious to be polite in such cases. So we stuck to the main road.

Fritz did not give us any trouble and we were back by five, with all hands out to greet us when we were in sight, and a regular prodigal son welcome on tap, for we were later than they had expected us, and they had made up their minds that some accident had happened.

While I was around Dixmude, I saw many living men and women and children who had been mutilated by the Germans, but most of them were women and children. Almost every one of the mutilated men was too old for military service. The others had been killed, I guess.

But the Belgians were not the only ones who had suffered from German Kultur. Many French wounded were tortured by the Huns, and we were constantly finding the mutilated bodies of our troops. It was thought that the Germans often mutilated a dead body as an example to the living.

The Germans had absolutely no respect whatever for the Red Cross. For instance, they captured a wagon loaded with forty French wounded, and shot every one of them. I saw the dead bodies.

When the Germans came to Dixmude they got all the men and women and children and made them march before them with their hands in the air. Those who did not were knocked down. After a while some of them saw what they were going to get, and being as game sports as I ever heard of, tried to fight. They were finished off at once, of course.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain unsulfated cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multisulfated cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

shot and finished off with an ax, though he had not resisted, because he wanted to save the lives of his citizens. They told me of one case, in Dixmude, where a man came out of his house, trying to carry his father, a man of eighty, to the square, where they were ordered to report. The old man could not raise his hands, so they dragged his son away from him, knocked the old man in the head with an ax, and left him there to die. Those who were spared were made to dig the graves for the others.

There was a doctor there in Dixmude, who certainly deserves a military cross if any man ever did. He was called from his house by the Germans at 5:30 one morning. He left his wife, who had had a baby two days before, in the house. He was taken to the square, lined up against a wall with three other big men of the town.

Then he saw his wife and baby being carried to the square on a mattress by four Germans. He begged to be allowed to kiss his wife good-by, and they granted him permission. As he stepped away, there was a rattle and the other men went West. They shot him, too, but though he was riddled with bullets he lived, somehow, and begged the German officer to let him accompany his wife to the prison where they were taking her. This was granted too, but on the way, they heard the sound of firing. The soldiers yelled, "Die Franzosen!" and dropped the mattress and ran. But it was only some of their own butchers at work.

Doctor Laurent carried his wife and baby to an old aqueduct that was being rebuilt by the creek. They lived for three days and three nights, on the few herbs and the water that Doctor Laurent sneaked out and got at night. Doctor Laurent says that when the Germans killed and crucified the civilians at Dixmude, they first robbed them of their watches, pocketbooks, rings and other things. There was a Madame Tilman there, who had had three thousand francs stolen from her and was misused besides.

These were just a very few of the things that happened at just one place where the Germans got to work with their "Kultur." So you can picture the Belgians agreeing on a German peace, while there is a Belgian alive to argue about it. They will remember the Germans a long time, I think. But they need not worry; there are a lot of us who will not forget, either.

CHAPTER IX.

Laid Off for Repairs.

One night, after I had been in Dixmude for about three weeks, we made a charge in the face of a very heavy fire. Our captain always stood at the parapet when we were going over, and made the sign of the cross and shouted "For God and France." Then we would go over. Our officers always led us, but I have never seen a German officer lead a charge. They always were behind their men, driving instead of leading. I do not believe they are as brave as they are said to be.

Well, we went over this time, and the machine guns were certainly going it strong. We were pretty sore about the chaplain and the Swiss and all that, and we put up an awful fight, but we could not make it and had to come back. Only one company reached the Boche trenches and not a man of it came back who had not been wounded on the way and did not reach the trench. They were just wiped out.

The captain was missing, too. We thought he was done for, but about two o'clock in the morning, he came back. He simply fell over into the trench, all in. He had been wounded four times, and had lain in a shell crater full of water for several hours. He would not go back for treatment then, and when daylight came, it was too late, because we were practically cut off by artillery fire behind the front line trenches.

When daylight came, the artillery fire opened up right on us, and the Germans had advanced their lines into some trenches formerly held by us and hardly forty-five yards away. We received bombs and shells right in our faces. A Tunisian in our company got crazy, and ran back over the parapets. He ran a few yards, then stopped and looked back at us. I think he was coming to his senses, and would have started back to us. Then the spot where he had been was empty, and a second later his body from the chest down fell not three yards from the parapets. I do not know where the top part went. That same shell cut a groove in the low hilltop before it exploded. He had been hit by a big shell, and absolutely cut in two. I have seen this happen to four men, but this was the only one in France.

About seven o'clock, we received reinforcements, and poured fresh troops over and retook the trench. No sooner had we entered it, however, than the Germans turned their artillery on us, not even waiting for their own troops to retire safely. They killed numbers of their own men in this way. But the fire was so heavy that, when they counter-attacked, we had to retire again, and this time they kept after us and drove us beyond the trench we had originally occupied.

We left them there, with our artillery taking care of them, and our machine guns trying to enfilade them, and moved to the right. There was a bunch of trees there, about like a small woods, and as we passed the Germans concealed in it opened fire on us, and we retired to some reserve trenches. We were pretty much scattered by this time, and badly cut up. We reformed there, and were joined by other of our troops, in small groups—what was left of squads and platoons and singly. Our captain had got it a fifth time, meanwhile, but he would not leave us, as he was the ranking officer. He had a scalp wound, but the others were in his arms and shoulders. He could not move his hands at all.

But he led our charge when we ran for the woods. We carried some machine guns with us as we went, and the gunners would run a piece, set up, fire while we opened up for them, and run on again. Some troops came out of a trench still farther to the right and helped us, and we drove the Germans out of the woods and occupied it ourselves.

From there, we had the Germans in our old trench almost directly from the rear, and we simply cleaned them out. I think all the vows were kept that day, or else the men who made them died first.

I was shot through the thigh some time or other after the captain got back. It felt just like a needle-prick at first, and then for a while my leg was numb. A couple of hours after we took our trench back, I started out for the rear and hospital. The wound had been hurting for some time. They carried the captain out on a stretcher about the same time, but he died on the way from loss of blood. Fresh troops came up to relieve us, but our men refused to go, and though officially they were not there in the trench, they stayed until they took the captain away. Then, back to billets—not bullets, this time. I believe that we received an army citation for that piece of work, but I do not know, as I was in the hospital for a short time afterward. I do not remember much about going to the hospital except that the ambulance made an awful racket going over the stone-paved streets of Etaples, and that the bearer who picked up one end of my stretcher, had eyes like dead fish floating on water; also, that there were some civvies standing around the entrance as we were being carried in.

The first thing they do in the hospital is to take off your old dirty bandages and slide your stretcher under a big electric magnet. A doctor comes in and places his hand over your wound, and they let down the magnet over his hand and turn on the juice. If the shell fragment or bullet in you is more than seven centimeters deep, you cannot feel the pain. The first doctor reports to the chief how deep your wound is, and where it is situated, and then a nurse comes up to you, where you lie, with your clothes still on, and asks you to take the "pressure."

Then they lift you on a four-wheeled cart, and roll you to the operating theater. They take off your clothes there. I remember I liked to look at the nurses and surgeons; they looked so good in their clean white clothes.

Then they stick hollow needles into you, which hurt a good deal, and you take the pressure. After a while, they begin cutting away the bruised and maybe rotten flesh, removing the old cloth, pieces of dirt, and so forth, and scraping away the splinters of bone.

You think for sure you are going to bleed to death. The blood rushes through you like lightning, and if you get a sight of yourself, you can feel yourself turning pale. Then they hurry you to your bed, and cover you over with blankets and hot-water bottles. They raise your bed on chairs, so the blood will run up toward your head, and after a while, your eyes open and the doctor says, "Out, out, il viva," meaning that you still had some time to spend before finally going west.

The treatment we got in the hospital was great. We received cigarettes, tobacco, matches, magazines, and clean clothes. The men do not talk about their wounds much, and everybody tries to be happy and show it. The food was fine, and there was lots of it. I do not think there were any doctors in the world better than ours, and they were always trying to make things easy for us. They did not rip the dressings off your wounds like some of the butchers do in some of our dispensaries that I know of, but took them off carefully. Everything was very clean and sanitary, and some of the hospitals had sun parlors, which were well used, you can be sure.

Some of the men made toys and fancy articles, such as button hooks and paper knives. They made the handles from empty shell cases, or shrapnel, or pieces of Zeppelins, or anything else picked up along the front.

When they are getting well, the men learn harness making, mechanical drawing, telegraphy, gardening, poultry raising, typewriting, bookkeeping and the men teach the nurses how to make canes out of shell cases, and rings of aluminum, and slippers and gloves out of blankets.

The nurses certainly work hard. They always have more to do than they ought to, but they never complain, and are always cheerful and ready to play games when they have the time, or read to some polio. And their work is pretty dirty too: I would not like to have to do it. They say there were lots of French society ladies working as nurses, but you never heard much about society, or any talk about Lord Helpus, or Count Whosis, or pink teas or anything like that from these nurses.

A few shells landed near our hospital, while I was there, but no patient was hit. They knocked a shrine of Our Lady to splinters, though, and bowled over a big crucifix. The kitchen was near by, and it was just the chef's luck that he had walked over to our ward to see a pal of his, when a shell landed plumb in the center of the kitchen, and all you could see all over the barracks was stew.

That was a regular eatless day for us, until they rigged up bogies and got some more dixies, and mixed up some conmeal for us. The chef made up for it the next day, though. The chef was a great little guy. He was a "blesse" himself, and I guess his stomach sympathized with ours.

There was a Frenchman in the bed next to me who had the whole side of his face torn off. He told me he had been next to a bomber, who had just lit a fuse and did not think it was burning fast enough, so he blew on it. It burned fast enough after that, and there he was.

There was a Belgian in one of the other wards, whom I got to know pretty well, and he would often come over and visit me. He asked many questions about Dixmude, for he had had relatives there, though he had lost track of them. He often tried to describe the house they had lived in, so that I might tell him whether it was still standing or not, but I could not remember the place he spoke of. During our talks, he told me about many atrocities. Some of the things he told me I had heard before, and some of them I heard of afterward. Here are some things that he either saw or heard of from victims:

He said that when the Germans entered the town of St. Quentin, they started firing into the windows as they passed along. First, after they had occupied the town, they bayoneted every workman they could find. Then they took about half of the children, and killed them, and the remainder of the children and the women to the square where they had fired up a row of multi-citizens against a wall. The women and children were told that if they moved, they would all be shot. Another file of men was brought up, and made to kneel in front of the other men against the wall.

The women and children began to beg for the lives of the men, and many of them were knocked in the head with gun butts before they stopped.

Then the Germans fired at the double rank of men. After three volleys, there were eighty-four dead and twenty wounded. Most of the wounded they then killed with axes, but somehow, three or four escaped by hiding under the bodies of others and playing dead, though the officers walked up and down firing their revolvers into the piles of bodies.

The next day the Germans went through the wine cellars, and shot all the inhabitants they found hiding there. A lot of people, who had taken refuge in a factory over night, decided to come out with a white flag. They were allowed to think that the white flag would be respected, but no sooner were they all out than they were seized and the women publicly violated in the square, after which the men were shot. A paralytic was shot as he sat in his arm-chair, and a boy of fourteen was taken by the legs and pulled apart.

At one place, a man was tied by the arms to the ceiling of his room and set afire. His trunk was completely carbonized, but his head and arms were unburned. At the same place, the body of a fifteen-year-old boy was found, pierced by more than twenty bayonet thrusts. Other dead were found with their hands still in the air, leaning up against walls.

At another place the Germans sheltered the town for a day, and then entered and sacked it. The women and children were turned loose, without being allowed to take anything with them, and forced to leave the town. Nearly five hundred men were deported to Germany. Three, who were almost exhausted by hunger, tried to escape. They were bayoneted and clubbed to death. Twelve men, who had taken refuge in a farm, were tied together and shot in a mass. Another group of six were tied together and shot, after the Germans had put out their eyes and tortured them with bayonets. Three others were brought before their wives and children and sabered.

The Belgian told me he was at Namur when the Germans began shelling it. The bombardment lasted the whole of August 21 and 22, 1914. They centered their fire on the prison, the hospital, and the railway station. They entered the town at four o'clock in the afternoon of August 23. During the first twenty-four hours, they behaved themselves, but on the 24th they began firing at anyone they pleased, and set fire to different houses on five of the principal squares.

Then they ordered every one to leave his house, and those who did not were shot. The others, about four hundred in all, were drawn up in front of the church, close to the river bank. The Belgian said he could never forget how they all looked.

"I can remember just how it was," he said. "There were eight men, whom I knew very well, standing in a row with several priests. Next came two good friends of mine named Balbau and Guillaume, with Balbau's seventeen-year-old son; then two men who had taken refuge in a barn and had been discovered and blinded; then two other men whom I had never seen before."

"It was awful to see the way the women were crying—'Shoot me too, shoot me with my husband.'"

"The men were lined up on the edge of the hollow, which runs from the high road to the bottom of the village. One of them was leaning on the shoulders of an old priest, and he was crying, 'I am too young—I can't face death bravely.'"

"I couldn't bear the sight any longer. I turned my back to the road and covered my eyes. I heard the volley and the bodies falling. Then some one cried, 'Look, they're all down.' But a few escaped."

This Belgian had escaped by hiding—he could not remember how many days—in an old cart filled with manure and rubbish. He had chewed old hides for food, had swam across the river, and hid in a mud bank for almost a week longer, and finally got to France.

He took it very hard when we talked about Dixmude, and I told him that the old church was just shot to pieces. He asked about a painting called the "Adoration of the Magi," and one of the other prisoners told us it had been saved and transported to Germany. If that is true, and they do not destroy it meanwhile, we will get it back, don't worry!

My wound was just a clean gunshot wound and not very serious, so, although it was not completely healed, they let me go after three weeks. But before I went, I saw something that no man of us will ever forget. Some of them took vows just like the men of the legion I have told about.

One of the patients was a German doctor, who had been picked up in No Man's Land, very seriously wounded. He was given the same treatment as any of us, that is, the very best, but finally, the doctors gave him up. They thought he would die slowly, and that it might take several weeks.

But there was a nurse there, who took special interest in his case, and she stayed up day and night for some time and finally brought him through. The case was very well known, and everybody said she had performed a miracle. He got better slowly.

Then a few weeks later, when he was out of danger and was able to walk, and it was only a question of time before he would be released from the hospital this nurse was transferred to another hospital. Everybody knew her and liked her, and when she went around to say good-by, all the men were sorry and gave her little presents, and wanted her to write to them. She was going to get a nurse she knew in the other hospital to turn her letters into English, so that she could write to me. I gave her a ring I had made from a piece of shell case, but I guess she had hundreds of them at that.

But this German doctor would not say good-by to her. That would not have made me sore, but it made this French girl feel very bad, and she began to cry. One of the French officers saw her and found out about the doctor, and the officer went up and spoke to the nurse and the German called to the nurse and she went over to him and stopped crying.

They talked for a little while, and then she put out her hands as if she was going to leave. He put out his hands, too, and took hold of hers. And then he twisted her wrists and broke them. We heard the snap.

There were men in that ward who had not been on foot since the day they came to the hospital, and one of them was supposed to be dying, but it is an absolute fact that when we heard her scream, there was not a man left in bed.

I need not tell you what we did to the German. They did not need to shoot him, after we got through with him. They did shoot what was left of him, to make sure, though.

Now, I have heard people say that it is not the Germans we are fighting, but the Kaiser and his system. Well, it may be true that some of the Boche soldiers would not do these things if they did not have to; myself, I am not so sure.

But you take this doctor. Here he was, an educated man, who had been trained all his life to help people who were in pain, and not to cause it. And he was not there to help people, but to obey the Kaiser or any other German. And this nurse had saved his life.

So I do not see that there is any argument about it. He broke that girl's wrists because he wanted to; that is all there is to it. Now, I say this German doctor was a dirty cur and a scoundrel. But I say that he is a fair sample of most of the Germans I have met. And it is Germans of this kind that we are fighting—not merely the Kaiser.

It is like going to college. I have never been there, but I have heard some people say it did not do a man any good to go. But I have never heard a man who went there say that. Probably you have not been over there, and maybe you think we are not fighting the German people, but only the Kaiser and his funkies.

Well, nobody had better tell me that. Because I have been there, and I have seen this. And I know.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

GIRLS! BUTTERMILK CREATES BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXIONS OVERNIGHT

No Fuss. Just try it this new way.

The first application of Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic, but the most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes the rough arms snowy white, yet causes no slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most hated pimples will not produce the least shyness or greasiness to the skin.

It is absolutely harmless and will neither produce nor stimulate the growth of hair. Within twenty-four hours this wonderful combination of Buttermilk Cream will work a marvelous transformation.
Get a small quantity today at T. J. Evans, W. A. Erman, and C. V. drug stores. The directions are simple and it costs so little that any girl or woman can afford it. In addition the manufacturers authorize every druggist to return the purchase money unless the first application shows noticeable improvement, so be sure to try it at our expense.

The rain came down in sheets and the farmers in the vicinity of the lake are rejoicing for it was badly needed.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Somewhere in France, June 13, 1918.

To the Advocate and contributors to Medal Fund—Received your identification medal today and was sure pleased. I want to thank everybody that gave a red cent toward the medal fund and the Advocate for sending it. I think it a grand thing as do all my soldier friends who have seen it. A lot of the contributors I know personally, especially the Jacksontown Grange.

I wish to say a good word for the Y. M. C. A. contributors can feel assured that every cent that is given it is given to a good cause, for they are sure doing a great and good work here in France. Some of the men who are serving in the army are certainly good fellows and do a lot to keep the boys' thoughts on God and cause them to say prayers that I am sure are answered. If anyone can give money to the "Y" or to the Red Cross they should do it at once, for the very paper our letters are written on is given to us by the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. The company I am in had the barracks bags burned on the train while on our way to the port of embarkation, and after we were on the boat the Red Cross gave the men in companies A, B and C, in which were 750 men, each two pair of hose, a sweater, foot powder, vaseline, needles and penknives, razors, shoe strings, pipes, tobacco, cigars, handkerchiefs, toothbrushes and other things.

I must bring this to a close. This letter may be hard to read, but as you know, sometimes soldiers don't have tables to write on. Again, I want to thank the people of Licking county for remembering the soldiers that have gone from there and who are now with the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. I remain, Yours truly, PAUL H. STOTLER, Co. B, 9th Bt., 20th Engrs., N. A. A. E. F., via New York.

AMUSEMENTS

ALHAMBRA.

Tonight and Tomorrow.

"Riders of the Night," the Metro All-Star Series picture, starring Viola Dana which will be shown at the Alhambra tonight and tomorrow.

It is a simple but deeply moving story of Kentucky, with its quaint folk and their primitive loves and hates. It possesses the novelty, however, of being a tale of the blue grass without the semblance of a feud basis. The theme, incidentally, is the struggle of the rude mountaineers to overthrow the toll-gates and win free roads from the unscrupulous and avaricious owner of the hard-earned money.

Viola Dana plays charming Sally Castleton, a daughter of the old South.

Sunday.

Miss Mary Miles Minter has been appointed California president of the Children's Patriotic League of America.

Miss Minter, who is starred in a Paramount picture, "The Social Briars," pictured from a story by Jeanne Judson, has made arrangements to tour southern California in speaking in the public schools throughout her territory in behalf of suffering Belgian babies.

Miss Minter refused to prepare a speech for her tour and will speak extemporaneously wherever she goes, a fact that will render her tour a more attractive one to her thousands of juvenile admirers.

Mary is one of the best little talkers in the motion picture business. A few days ago she sold $25,000 worth of Liberty bonds at Santa Barbara in one afternoon.

Auditorium.

"Molly Entangled," "Public," which is you and I and Tom and Dick and Harry, began to get acquainted with the great folk of filmland and the way it is used to the current opinion that they led lives of luxury and idleness, interspersed with signing checks and coupling contentment.

When it became known that they spend countless hours and energy upon the making of each smallest scene, the contrary opinion was held.

The truth of the matter is, however, that these great folk enjoy themselves quite as much and just as hard as the ordinary man or woman. They have, though, the peculiar faculty of bringing joy to their work by making play of it. For instance, during the filming of "Molly Entangled," Vivian Martin's latest Paramount photoplay which is being shown at the Auditorium today, they thoroughly enjoyed the whole thing.

The air was thick with brogue and each of them had a try at it. Miss Martin commenced with a story of a recent experience. She said she went in to a small motion picture theatre and was looking for a seat when an attentive usher appeared at her elbow.

"Want a seat, Miss?" he asked.

"Yes, a seat, please."

"Indeed, Miss," was the reply, "I should be glad to give you a seat but the empty ones are all full."

Director Robert Thornby had one to mention this—with the joke on himself. The boards were being in the very middle of the studio floor and had pulled a very important scene. But, a Irish prop man was requested to move them. "Where will I take them?" he asked. "To hell," replied Director Thornby, somewhat heavily.

But mopped his brow a moment and replied softly, "Hain't I better take them to heaven? They'd be more out of the way, Son."

Even Harrison Ford, leading man for Miss Martin in this picture, was with her when the "Irish" incident was in progress. He told one about an Irish farmer, a novice, who asked of Mike his neighbor how cows are milked.

"Milked," Mike replied. "The same as the short ones, heggorra."

And later, during the sentimental scene, Mr. Ford murmured, "Sure 'tis a great comfort to be alone, specially when your sweetheart's with you. This feature, also Hearst-Pathé News is shown today and tomorrow.

"Good Night, Nurse."

An Arbuckle photo-comedy is bound to be amusing at all times, but "Good Night, Nurse," the latest comedy featuring Mr. Arbuckle, will be shown at the Auditorium theatre next Sunday and Monday.

It is described as being "a genuine laugh-out-loud picture. Mr. Arbuckle is seen as a convivial fat man, who after a night out, is sent to a sanitarium by his indignant wife. He has side-splitting adventures in this institution, all of a character calculated to make patients of the spectators. Mr. Arbuckle is splendidly supported by Al St. John, Buster Keaton and Alice Lake, the quartette contributing to making the comedy one of exceptional merit.

No Make-Believe Flight.

Lovers of fight scenes and plays will be thrown into the land of ecstasy after they viewed Wm. S. Hart in "The Bandit, and the Preacher," the superlative feature, being released by W. H. Productions company.

NOTED LEADERS TO BE PRESENT AT DEDICATION

Zanesville, O., July 12.—Many noted labor leaders will be present at the dedication of the Dennis A. Hayes monument in Mt. Calvary cemetery, Sunday afternoon, as President John A. Voll of the glass workers is receiving a flood of notifications from leaders in all trades, saying they will be on hand. Mr. Voll is arranging a speaking program of men of nation-wide fame and the dedicatory ceremony will demonstrate the universal regard for the ability of Mr. Hayes in labor work and also for the esteem in which he was held for his sterling character.

Leading officers of the American Federation of Labor, with the exception of President Gompers, who is unable to come because of war work, will be on hand with one or more national representatives of nearly every other trade of more than a local importance. The dedicatory ceremonies, preceded by a parade, will be one of the most impressive pieces of the big convention which has been in the city for nearly a week. It will be a double demonstration, one of respect for Dennis Hayes and one showing the unification of all labor.

Among those who signified their services Sunday, was John Fry, editor of the Ironworkers' Journal. A letter expressing regret at his inability of attending the memorial ability to attend was received from John Mitchell, former president of the United Glass Workers of America, who has been chosen an arbitrator in a big New York labor controversy. Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Mugavin of Cincinnati, the former, secretary and organizer of the Ohio State Building Trades' council, will attend the dedication.

A special invitation is extended by Branch No. 24 of Newark, to the citizens in general and to organized labor in particular to be present upon the occasion and witness and assist in the ceremonies. The Newark committee of the glass blowers has made arrangements for an ample number of special cars, so that all who wish to come to this city can be accommodated. The cars leave inter-urban station at 12 o'clock noon. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to honor the memory of a man who was so generally esteemed and respected as was Dennis A. Hayes.

Some important matters were disposed of at Thursday's session of the Glass Bottle Blowers' association, even though it was the shortest of the week. A resolution by Branch No. 60 of Terre Haute, Ind., to amend the constitution so that an amendment could be adopted by a majority vote instead of two-thirds vote, was overwhelmingly defeated. A resolution by the Evansville, Ind., branch to bar members not actively engaged in glass work from election as delegates to national conventions, was almost unanimously defeated. The delegates and the local arrangement committee with their ladies will go to Buckeye Lake on Saturday as the guests of the Kearns-Gorsuch Bottling company. A stop is to be made at Newark where the plant of the American glass workers is to be inspected. At Buckeye Lake a ball game between picked teams from the east and the west is to be played. The managers of the teams are busy completing their lineups and a close played contest is anticipated.

NEWARK FAVORED AT LAST AFTER A LONG DROUGHT

Citizens who observed a few drops of moisture descending upon the parched earth about six o'clock last night, thought it was merely another of Nature's camouflage, and were afraid to indulge the hope that suffering vegetation was about to receive much needed relief. But these advance drops were soon followed by overwhelming reinforcements and presently the whole landscape was obscured by a curtain of rain. The attacking forces continued action operation most of the night and crops were advanced along the entire front. There has been a cessation of hostilities during the day but a cloudy sky holds out hope of a renewed attack and it is thought that the drought may be put to a complete rout.

FRENCH TROOPS

On the assumption that the Germans, if they decide to open up their attack on a new front when they resume their offensive will strike somewhere between Rheims and Lorraine, some interest may be attached to the report in the French official statement today that the enemy artillery is displaying rather marked activity on the front northwest of Verdun within this area.

Germany still hesitates to challenge the allies to heavy fighting by a resumption of offensive movements. Initiative in local engagement and raiding operations is in the hands of the allied troops and they continue to harass the enemy at many points between Ypres and Rheims.

British troops on several sectors have raided the German lines on the Flanders and Pleardy battlefields, the Australians on the one place bringing back seventy prisoners. Between the Aine and the Marne, French and patrols have penetrated the enemy positions near Bussalres, south of Corey, the scene of the latest French gain which the Germans have made no attempt to dispute. On the Marne front American troops have routed a German patrol which attempted a raid.

Austrian forces in eastern Albania continue to retire before the pressure of advancing Franco-Italian detachments. In the Tomorica valley the enemy is fleeing northward before the French who have reached the valley from the east and occupied several villages. Italian troops on the west have occupied the commanding peak of Glumaka, capturing 250 prisoners. This height commands the district between Balat and the Tomorica.

Bolshevik troops having gained success over the Czechs in Russia in eastern Russia and Siberia. It is claimed the Czechs have been driven from towns on the Volga both northeast and southeast of Moscow. General Muraviev, commander of the Bolshevik forces operating against the Czechs, has committed suicide, according to an official Russian wireless dispatch, after a futile attempt to start a counter movement against the Bolsheviks.

Western Siberia Pekin advises say is virtually all in firm control of the Czech-Slovak forces who hold 1,300 miles of the trans-Siberian railway and important cities along its route. It is not improbable the Czechs are moving into Siberia from Russia which would account for the reported Bolshevik successes against them.

A SOAKING RAIN VISITS GRANVILLE DURING LAST NIGHT

Special to the Advocate
Granville, O., July 12.—This community was treated to a soaking rain last night and today gives promise of more moisture. Potatoes, corn and Liberty gardens were greatly in need of the showers, while the hay crop can safely wait awhile. Threshing has begun and before many days the luxuriant fields will have been denuded of their glory.

Dr. Frances M. Hollingshead, state chairman of the Child Welfare Committee, who made many sincere friends and admirers by her magnificent address at the meeting of the Council of Defense here a few weeks ago, writes that she is shortly to go to France and that, in consequence she will lay aside her present work for the time. She expresses appreciation and pleasure in the hearty co-operation she has received by the committees of Licking county, and the hope also that the wonderful groups of capable women throughout the state may be more closely welded together and thus be able to accomplish something really big. She will be succeeded in her state position by Miss Lucy Buell of Painesville, Ohio.

Miss Isabel Raymond has received an interesting letter from her cousin Fitch C. Bryant of New York who is in the Overseas Transportation department of the Y. M. C. A. in that city, which she read at the A. F. F. W. this week. Mr. Bryant was born and educated in Granville and his important activities as assistant manager of transportation, which he considers the most interesting as well as the most strenuous work he has ever had. The chief obstacles, he says, are slowness in getting passports and difficulty in securing steamer reservations, so that at present there are 500 ready to sail. Three Granville men have passed his desk, Messrs. Nixon, Howell and Garwood. Their record ship carried 210 men and 2 women, a splendid lot and thoroughly organized. One of the waiters in the second class dining room was the rector of a fashionable Episcopal church in Washington, D. C. Y. M. C. A. work is a good leveller, the men all have the spirit of service and are willing to do anything.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Biefeldt with their family have returned from a vacation visit with friends in Illinois—following the professor's professional trip to Denver at the time of the solar eclipse.

Miss Grace Chamberlin, Granville librarian, has returned from a fortnight's sojourn at Buckeye Lake at the Hulshizer cottage.

BARN DANCE ON MCKINNEY FARM A BIG SUCCESS

A barn dance was given at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McKinney near Vanatta on Thursday evening. Johnson's orchestra of Granville furnished the music, there being about 150 people present. The barn which is a very large one, being 60 by 150 feet was artistically decorated. During the evening light refreshments were served.

City Solicitor Henry Ashcraft on behalf of the host gave a short patriotic talk and suggested that a collection be taken for the Red Cross. Several of the guests passed hats around and the sum of $48 was secured.

YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED WHILE SEATED IN AUTO

M. Leverett VanDorn, of the 158th Depot Brigade, Camp Sherman, and Miss Eva Beatrice Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norton Nichols of Palatka, came down to Newark in an automobile on Saturday, secured a marriage license, and driving back, summoned the Rev. J. B. Williamson who stood beside the machine and pronounced the brief ceremony that united them in marriage. It had so much the appearance of a casual meeting and conversation that passersby failed utterly to realize that they were witnessing a wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. VanDorn are graduates of the Palatka high school and popular socially.
